

Mrs. Taft Guest of Honor At the Wilfley Luncheon

Newly Appointed Judge of United States Court and His Mother Entertain Party of Friends at the New Willard.

Mrs. Taft, wife of the Secretary of War, was the guest of honor at luncheon today of Judge Wilfley, newly appointed judge in the United States Court, and his mother, Mrs. S. P. Wilfley, at the New Willard. Among the other guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Denby and Dr. James B. Scott. Judge Wilfley and his mother and the Secretary of War and Mrs. Taft were old friends in Manila.

Mrs. S. P. Wilfley, who has spent some time with her son at the Willard, left this afternoon for St. Louis.

Baroness Rosen and Baroness Elizabeth Rosen, wife and daughter of the Russian Ambassador, have arrived at the embassy after a long absence in the North and a trip West with the ambassador.

Miss Grace Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bell, will sail from New York on Wednesday for Europe, where she will join a party of English friends and go to Bombay. They will spend the winter in India. Miss Bell has spent the fall season with her parents in their country place at "Twin Oaks" and will be greatly missed by young society in Washington this season.

The marriage is announced of Miss Annie E. Taylor and William Stieling.

MISS ANNE BROWN NOVEMBER BRIDE

Ceremony in St. Margaret's Episcopal Church Pretty Social Event.

Miss Anne Phelps Brown, daughter of Mrs. Sevelton A. Brown, was married yesterday afternoon to Charles Hamilton Bradley, youngest son of the late Justice Andrew C. Bradley. The ceremony was performed in St. Margaret's Episcopal Church, at 4 o'clock, by the Rev. Dr. William Henry Casey, of Cayuga, N. Y., who performed the ceremony uniting the parents of the bride. He was assisted by Rev. Herbert Scott Smith, rector of St. Margaret's. The church was filled with friends of both families, making a large company of the distinctly "old resident" set in Washington society, while both the bride and bridegroom have been important factors in the younger element.

The wedding was an extremely pretty function, owing to its perfect simplicity in decoration arrangements. The church was decorated with bunches of pink and white chrysanthemums in vases, the color scheme being white, pink, and green, carried out in all the details, including the gowns of the bridesmaids.

The bride was attended by the bridegroom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Andrew Y. Bradley, a bride of less than two years ago, as matron of honor, and Miss Gertrude Brown, sister of the bride, and Miss Elsie Curtis, as bridesmaids. The bridegroom's best man was his brother, Andrew Y. Bradley, and the ushers were William Steinhilber and William A. Robinson, of Pittsburgh; William Pell and Marshall Marshall, of New York; Gresham Poe, of Baltimore; Hugh Wilson, of Philadelphia, all classmates at Princeton and fellow-members of the Ivy Club of Princeton; Victor Houston, U. S. N.; George L. Huntress, of Boston; Duncan Bradley and Edward Heald, cousins of the bridegroom, and Sevelton Brown, brother of the bride.

The bride entered the church with her brother, Phelps Brown, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of the most striking beauty. It was of heavy ivory satin, made princess and severely plain, and closely fitting. The only trimming was a tiny yoke of tucked mousseline around the superb bertha of rose point lace which her mother wore on her wedding gown. This was draped about the yoke, crossed on the breast and brought together at the waist line in the back, making an effect of much grace and beauty. Her train was very long and full and her veil reached to the bottom of it back and front.

She carried a large bunch of long stemmed white chrysanthemums tied with long white ribbons and made a picture of an ideal bride.

The costumes of the matron of honor and the bridesmaids were of the same simple empire style with demure trains. Pink picture hats, trimmed with wreaths of tiny pink roses and green leaves and large bunches of pink carnations, and maiden hair fern completed the pretty effect.

A reception followed the ceremony, in the home of the bride's mother, Twenty-first street, where only the bridal party and the relatives and friends of the bride and bridegroom were present.

Mr. Bradley and his bride left on an evening train for their wedding trip, after which they will be at home with the bridegroom's mother on Mondays in December, at 203 Q street.

The bride's going-away gown of gray broadcloth was made on the same simple lines of the bridal gown and was set off becomingly with a smart cerise velvet hat.

An interesting feature of the wedding was the presence in the wedding party of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Y. Bradley, a bride and bridegroom of eighteen months ago, and of Miss Gertrude Brown, and George L. Huntress, of Boston, whose engagement was announced some time ago.

A pretty wedding took place in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, when Miss Bertha Agatha Jullin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Magnus L. Jullin, of this city, was married to Robert Walter Dyer, of Saratoga, N. Y. The Rev. William R. Bushy officiating.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Dyer left for a short trip to New York. Upon their return they will be at home at 943 Virginia avenue until December 1, when they will leave for their future home, in Sandusky, N. Y.

Miss Bertha Jeannette Mead and David J. Foley were married in St. Aloysius' Church last Tuesday afternoon at 5:30. The stately altar and sanctuary were decorated with imported plants and palms and brilliantly illuminated with wax and electric candelabra.

The bride was prettily gowned in a creation of pearl-colored tulle and white over tulle and white, and wore a picture hat of white felt, with flowing plumes. She carried a large shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, and was attended by Miss Mamie the ceremony taking place on Wednesday, October 31, in the rectory of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The Rev. and Mrs. Philip M. Prescott have sailed for Europe for an indefinite stay. Their son, Philip M. Prescott, Jr., of Richmond, accompanied them to New York. He is now making a round of visits in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, before returning to his Southern home.

Mrs. Victor Clement, whose engagement to Captain Cloman was announced this week, is spending the week in Boston and New York, but is expected to return to her apartment in the Connecticut at the end of this week.

Mrs. Daniel Lothrop, of Boston, who spends a portion of each winter and spring in Washington, will be the hostess at a tea in the former home of Hawthorne, "The Wayside," in Concord, in honor of her only daughter, Miss Margaret Maud Lothrop, to present her formally to society. Mrs. Lothrop and her daughter spent last winter in Egypt and the spring season in Washington, where they have hosts of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Zimmerman, of San Francisco, are spending the winter in Washington. Mrs. Zimmerman was formerly Mrs. Mary Dooley, of San Francisco, whose daughter is Mrs. Robert S. Chilton, Jr., wife of the American consul at Toronto.

Offutt, the only bridesmaid, who wore a becoming costume of yellow silk mousseline, with hat to match. William H. McGinnis was best man.

The bridal party, headed by the ushers, Dr. Ernest Smith, cousin of the bride, and Thomas B. Eckloff, moved up the aisle to the strains of "Lohengrin" by Prof. S. J. Kubel.

The Rev. Father Kelleher united the contracting pair in the holy bonds and was assisted by a company of white-robed acolytes.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the residence of the bride, where the happy couple received the congratulations of a multitude of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Foley took a midnight train for the North, and upon their return, late in November, will take up their residence at 257 N street northwest.

Mrs. Berkowitz, wife of Rabbi Berkowitz, of Philadelphia, has been at the Arlington Hotel for the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Behrend and son, Noris, were guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. U. B. Behrend.

Mrs. Meyer Singer and son, of New York city, who have been the guests of the Mrs. Charles Goldsmith, were joined by Mr. Singer, and have returned to their home.

Mrs. Oppenheimer, who has been the guest of Miss Rickie Gang, has left for Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Nordlinger have returned to their home in Hittore street, after a trip to New York city.

Jerome Lyon has gone for a few weeks' trip through the West.

Miss Florence Koch, of Toledo, Ohio, is again in Washington to resume her studies at the Fairmont Seminary.

Ernest Mayer, of New York city, spent a few days in town with friends the past week.

Miss Nellie Behrend, of Rhode Island avenue, entertained the "Afternoon Sewing Circle" and escorts Wednesday evening with a Halloween party. The home was decorated with pumpkin lanterns, foliage, with here and there a miniature witch and many ornaments bespeaking the "Eve of Witches."

After games, music, etc., a delightful supper was served. Those present were Miss Hilda Jacob, Miss Malvine Woog, Miss Edna Dryfoos, Miss Esther Behrend, Charles Fleisher, Irvin Hollander, Allan Bachrach, Harry Hollander and Mendell Behrend.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil King, of the Imperial, have gone to New York for a few days to visit Mrs. King's mother, Mrs. R. Harris. Mr. King will also go to Princeton.

Lewis Cohen, of this city, has returned from a visit to New York.

Melville Strauss, of Cincinnati, is spending a few days with friends.

High-Class Furs at Half Price

A Maker's Entire Stock of Furs and Fur Garments at Prices Without a Precedent for Lowness.
The Season's Greatest Sale Event.

The continued warm weather this fall has had a serious effect upon the fur trade. Lots of manufacturers had bills to pay for furs and could not sell their goods. Some, unfortunately, were compelled to sacrifice their merchandise in order not to fail. Under these conditions the fur trade has become simply demoralized. We bought last week a prominent manufacturer's entire stock of furs at half their usual price. Such bargains do not happen often.

The entire collection consists of the newest and most desirable furs. It includes genuine ermine pieces, black lynx sets, real chinchilla, far eastern mink, Jap mink, American marten, squirrel, black Persian paw, black caracol sets, etc., etc.

Although the weather so far has been warm, it is now November 1st, and furs will surely be in demand, very much so.

All the newest furs for 1906-1907 are represented. It is almost impossible for us to describe each item of the vast collection of special values to be had at Goldenberg's tomorrow.

Any of these furs may be purchased now and laid aside until Christmas upon payment of a small deposit.
